One of Greatest High Schools Due to Chautauquas' Influence

Township and Students Got Big "Hunch" as Celebrities Visited Community.

A town not very far away has the most celebrated high school in two states. Its equipment as well as its teaching force is the best that can be found. It has won thirteen inter-high school debates and has placed seventeen of its students in the honor class in as many leading universities of the nation within the past four years. It has produced some literature and much business service, which has been highly acceptable and well paid for. It has aroused its commuwest and far west are gradually increasing; who know why—quite distinctly why—they severally choose to farm or become merchants of one kind or another, or enter the professions, and when they choose to do these things they do so after they have made "surveys" and have given detailed attention to each of them.

It is a wonderful school. When the men who are responsible were asked recently how it all came to pass and the fact was uncovered that the school

NINETY BILLION TONS OF WATER CARRIED HOURLY

Through Straits of Florida by the Gulf Stream Says Admiral Pillsbury.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Ninety billion tons of water are carried hourly through the Straits of Florida by the Gulf stream, according to Admiral John E. Pillsbury, U. S. N., in a communication to the National Geographic Society, at Washington, D. C. This stream, he says, is probably the grandest and most mighty of any terrestrial phenomenon.

Wonder of the World.
"If this one single hour's flow of water could be evaporated, the remaining salts would require many times more than all the ships in the world to carry it," says Admiral Pillsbury. "It is difficult for the mind to grasp the immensity of the great ocean river. When one is on board a vessel, floating upon its waters, one is not so much impressed at the power and grandeur of this wonder of nature as he is when he stands before a towering mountain, an immense iceberg, or a fall of water such as Niagara, but when one remembers that the mighty torrent, speeding on hour by hour and day by day in a volume equal to all the largest rivers of the world combined, carrying its beneficent heat to temper the climate of continents, one begins to realize that of all the forces of the physical world none can equal this one river of the ocean."

Influence on Fortunes.
"It is interesting to note in the history of the Gulf Stream how great its influence has been on the fortunes of the New World. Before the discovery of America, strange woods and fruits were frequently found on the shores of Europe. Some of these were seen by Columbus and to him were convincing evidence that strange lands were to the westward. These woods were carried by the Gulf Stream and by the prevailing winds from America, so that in part, the stream is responsible for the discovery of the New World. Ponce de Leon, while searching for the fountain of Youth, discovered this stream. He sailed southward along the coast of Florida thus stemming the current. He says they found a current that, though the wind was good, they could not stem. It seemed that their vessels were going fast through the water, but they were being driven back in spite of the strong and favorable wind. One ship was soon carried away by the current and lost from sight, although it was a clear sky."

"The theories as to the cause of ocean currents have been many. In recent times the cause of current has been laid to river and the Gulf Stream, chiefly to the Mississippi. In actual fact about 2,000 such rivers would be required. In the tropical regions there is a steady movement of the air from east to west known as the trade winds. Winds blowing over the surface of the water induce a current in the latter due to friction. At first it is only the merest skim that moves, but gradually the motion is communicated from layer to layer until at last, if the wind is long continued as in the trade wind region, the movement extends to lower depths, 300 or 400 feet, or perhaps more. These trade wind currents continue across the Caribbean until they reach the obstruction of the Honduras and Yucatan coasts, from which they escape into the Gulf of Mexico.

Wind Causes Waves.
"Another source of the Gulf Stream is the wave caused by the wind. Every ripple carries a certain amount of water in the direction toward which it is flowing, irrespective of the current caused by its friction, and when the waves become large, tons of water are hurled from the crest into the trough every time the wave breaks. In a large area like the Caribbean, having a comparatively constant wind blowing over its whole surface, this action is practically a simultaneous movement of the surface waters to the westward."

"There is every evidence that the Gulf Stream is governed absolutely by law in all its variations; its course through the ocean is without doubt fixed; its fluctuations are by days, months, seasons, or by years, but they do not vary materially one year from the other. So we may conclude that of all the physical forces on this earth that are subject to any variations at all the great ocean currents are most immutable."
